A Manutti experience is a moment of joy and cosiness under the sky. Warmth and luxury for everyone, everywhere: from sunrise till sunset.

Step outside. Feel the warmth on your skin and enjoy the presence of your loved ones. At Manutti, we believe in the beauty of outdoor spaces and their power to bring people together. Our pieces are designed to inspire you to savour unforgettable moments with friends and family, at any time of the day, from dawn to dusk.

Manutti pieces are more than furniture. They are the stage for life's most cherished memories. Crafted with care, they invite you to relax, connect and enjoy every outdoor moment. Whether sharing breakfast in the early morning sun, lounging poolside on a warm afternoon, or lingering at the table long after sunset, our designs offer both elegance and everyday comfort.

Timeless Belgian craftsmanship, innovation and an uncompromising eye for detail are at the heart of everything we create.

With soft lines, durable materials and thoughtful functionality, each piece is designed to blend beauty with practicality so your outdoor moments feel effortless and lasting. A Manutti moment is made to be lived fully. Fill it with warmth, comfort and the people you love.

Craftsmanship

Inspired by nature

At Manutti, craftsmanship begins where nature inspires. Our materials are alive: teak that softens with the sun, fibres that gain character over time, finishes that grow richer with every season. In the hands of skilled artisans, these natural elements are shaped into pieces that radiate warmth, authenticity and lasting beauty. Each creation carries the quiet poetry of time and touch.

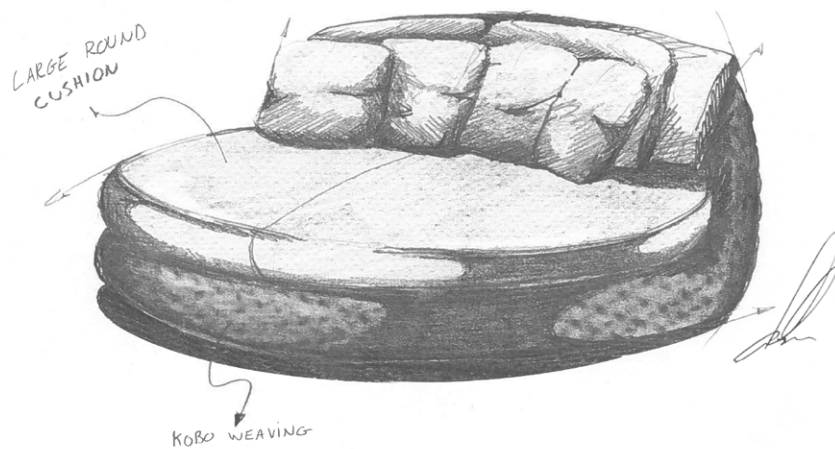

Designed in Belgium

Rooted in Belgium, our approach blends refined design with a passion for detail. Every curve, texture and junction is thoughtfully considered and perfected by our in-house R&D teams. This devotion to quality, paired with strict controls from Belgium to Indonesia, ensures furniture that feels timeless, comfortable and durable, from sunrise to sunset.

Innovation in motion

We push boundaries while honouring tradition. New materials, bold techniques and inventive finishes come to life through close collaboration with designers and craftspeople worldwide. The result is outdoor furniture that is both forward-thinking and enduring, elevating every moment outdoors. Innovation and artistry, woven into pieces built to last a lifetime.

Designers'

Stephane De Winter

Designer of Alune, Tamo, Muyu, Yiko, Torsa, Zendo Sense, Kobo and Radoc

Good design goes hand in hand with usability and comfort. That is what inspires Manutti founder and head designer Stephane De Winter (1968). He created and guards the unique Manutti DNA: smart design, craftsmanship and a profound sense of quality. This is reflected in his collections, featuring a mix of refined, classic designs with a contemporary twist. Always receptive to the customer's needs and in line with the latest trends, his team transcends itself to go beyond beauty.

Brent De Meulenaere

Designer of Ogado

Belgian designer Brent De Meulenaere (1997) blends his passion for natural materials with a fresh, functional approach to design. With a background in Interior and Product Design, he seamlessly merges creativity with technical insight. "In nature, no two things are ever the same. That's the beauty I wanted to capture – creating pieces that feel authentic and one of a kind," says Brent. The Ogado collection embodies this vision, with elegant, irregular patterns and a "social shape" that invites connection and comfort.

Metrica Design Studio

Designer of Flows

The Milanese design studio Metrica, headed by Lucio Quinzio Leonelli and Robin Rizzini, brings a touch of Italian flair to Manutti. Internationally acclaimed for its exclusive mixture of creation and technical management, the studio's designs are elegant and meticulously crafted. The collaboration with Manutti resulted in the Flex collection, a balancing act between traditional aesthetics and a unique, elegant shape.

Robin Hapelt

Designer of Sandua

For the Swiss-German designer, Robin Hapelt (1990), great design doesn't just have to look good, it should also make people happy. That's why all of his pieces exude contrast and humour. Hapelt is now residing in Southeast Asia, which he calls "a very exciting and inspiring part of the world." Much of his work reflects the Asian culture, particularly his use of Oriental weaving techniques and materials like rattan and bamboo. He makes his debut designing for Manutti with the ethnic-inspired Sandua collection, for which he spent many hours experimenting himself with different weaving patterns and techniques.

Gerd Couckhuyt

Designer of Elements & Mood

Inspired by the beauty of everyday life, Gerd Couckhuyt (1970) is an award-winning Belgian designer whose Manutti collections breathe subtlety, elegance and joy. With its lightness and translucence, the Mood collection is designed to nest effortlessly and mix and match with any setting, offering endless possibilities for creating inviting outdoor spaces. The enticing forms and architectural presence of the Elements collection even earned Manutti the prestigious Red Dot Award for Product Design.

Matthew Townsend

Designer of Cobi & Sunrise

After studying industrial design in Montreal, American designer Matthew Townsend (1992) moved to Florence to pursue his passion for furniture. Aesthetics and functionality meet in his work, as he explores creative new ways to use materials. "Establishing a strong personal connection between user and the design is what makes a piece timeless," says Matthew. His first design for Manutti was the Cobi coffee table collection. With Sunrise, he created a distinctive series of sofas, chairs, tables and loungers. The use of fabric and textile as part of the furniture frames creates an intriguing yet balanced contrast.

Koen Van Extergem

Designer of Air

Through his elegant minimalistic style, Belgian designer Koen Van Extergem (1989) has brought a sense of purity and lightness to Manutti. He studied product development and furniture design and joined the Manutti design team in 2013. His sleek, clean-cut creations are at the heart of the Air collection: a generation of durable outdoor solutions that are meticulously crafted, yet warm and full of character. In 2018, he was recognised with the Archiproducts Design Award for his Duo rocking chair.

Lionel Doyen

Designer of Kumo & Solid

With a practical understanding of product usability and an eye for fine details, Lionel Doyen (1978) takes a slightly different approach to design and development. Specialised in service, product and industrial design, the French designer aims to create on a more personal and experimental level, always keeping the customer's experience in mind. His style can best be described as innovative and timeless, as he consistently looks beyond mere aesthetic appeal. He designed the Kumo, San & Solid collections for Manutti, blending design with everyday comfort. In 2013, he launched his own design studio.
